An Introduction to the FIDIC Contracts

Presented by Andy Hewitt FICCP, FCIQB, FCICES, FQSi
Director - Hewitt Decipher Partnership

Thursday, 5 May 2022
0800 – 0900 UK time

The FIDIC forms of contract have become the go-to and most frequently used construction contracts internationally, particularly in countries that have not developed their own standard contracts.

FIDIC contracts are available for construction; design and build; engineer, procure and construct; design, build and operate; small works; tunnelling, dredging and consultancy services.

This presentation will introduce the FIDIC forms of contract and explain their various uses within the industry. It will also contain advice on the selection of the most suitable contract to meet the employer's procurement criteria for particular types of project.

Presenter: Andy Hewitt has more than 40-years' experience in the construction industry, which has been gained in the United Kingdom, Africa and the Middle East. He has held senior positions with contractors, sub-contractors and consultants and has worked on several iconic projects in the Middle East. Andy is the author of the following books:

- Construction Claims & Responses: Effective Writing and Presentation
- The FIDIC Forms of Contract: Obligations of the Parties
- FIDIC 1999 Notices: A Guide to the Requirements, Content and Composition of Notices Under the Red, Yellow and Silver Books
- FIDIC 1999 Claims: A Guide to Claims for Extensions of Time and Additional Payment under the Red, Yellow and Silver Books
- FIDIC 2017 Notices: A Guide to the Requirements, Content and Composition of Notices Under the Red, Yellow and Silver Books
- FIDIC 2017 Claims: A Guide to Claims for Extensions of Time and Additional Payment under the Red, Yellow and Silver Books (to be published in 2022)

Andy's experience in commercial, contract and project management led him to specialise in contractual issues, claims and dispute management, which culminated in his current position as a director of Hewitt Decipher Partnership, a consultancy practice offering services in these and related matters. Andy also works as an educator and trainer and developed and launched the training institution 'Claims Class'. Claims Class offers training courses for individuals and companies on an international basis through e-courses, online courses, and workshops.
